Frontline The Card Game (Interview/Discussion/Review, 60 minutes)

As credit card companies face rising public anger, new regulation from Washington and a potential perfect storm of economic bad news, FRONTLINE correspondent Lowell Bergman examines the future of the massive consumer loan industry and its impact on a fragile national economy. In a joint project with the New York Times -- a follow-up to "Secret History of the Credit Card" -- Bergman and the Times talk to industry insiders, lobbyists, politicians and consumer advocates as they square off over new regulation and the possible creation of a consumer finance protection agency. How are the credit, debit and pre-paid card industries repositioning themselves to maintain high profits under the new rules? The stakes couldn't be higher as many fear the consumer loan industry could be at the center of the next crisis.

Blueprint America: Beyond The Motor City (Documentary 60 minutes)

This program is an investigation of American transportation infrastructure from the past to the future, using Detroit as the narrative base for exploring this national story. Detroit has grown, flourished and fallen in accordance with the infrastructure choices we have made as a nation and, in Detroit's future, we can see a mirror of our national resolve. The expression "As GM goes, so goes the nation," has eerie resonance when what was once the country's largest company has gone bankrupt, but in the even larger realm of our national transportation infrastructure, it may well be that as Detroit goes, so goes our future.

Airdate: 2/8/2010 @ 10:00 pm on KCTS 9 & KYVE

3. Education

Girl's Life (Documentary 60 minutes)

Girls entering adulthood in the next decade will see more opportunities than today's women ever imagined. Will these girls stride confidently through newly opened doors or are they destined to be stunted by societal messages that tell them females should be constantly agreeable, impossibly thin and sexy above all else? Researcher and author Rachel Simmons examines the challenges facing young women as they surf the waves of 21st century adolescence. Simmons interviews parents, psychologists, teachers and social workers who are helping nurture girls into capable, resilient adults. She also talks with four very special girls who tell their own deeply personal tales of dealing with issues like cyber-bullying, body image and violence. With courage and determination, these girls reveal their hopes and dreams for their future.

Airdate: 1/12/2010 @ 3:00 am on KCTS 9 & KYVE

Roadtrip Nation (Documentary 30 minutes)

This 9-part documentary series is literally and figuratively driven by twenty-somethings. Nine soon-to-be college graduates (from the U.S., Canada and the U.K.) criss-cross the country in three mechanically unsound RVs interviewing people from all walks of life to get their stories - how they got to where they are - to see how these stories might provide some insight and guidance as the students try to define their own roads in life.

Among those interviewed this season: David Neeleman (CEO, JetBlue Airways), comedienne Wanda Sykes, Frederick Gregory (Deputy Administrator, NASA), Pat Schroeder, Ross Rebagliati (professional snowboarder and Olympic gold medalist), architect Richard Meier and Joe Quesada (editor in chief, Marvel Comics) to name a few.

The RV breaks down as the team heads from Los Angeles to San Francisco before they interview Thomas Nazario, law professor and children's rights activist. They then go to Golden Gate Park to talk with David Miles, Jr., the "godfather of skating." Driving east into Utah, they visit the Great Salt Lake and talk with David and Sandy Jensen, theater owners. The team pushes on to New Mexico and meets up with Christina Heyniger, an adventure tourism consultant.

Airdate: 1/16/2010 @ 12:30 am on KCTS 9 & KYVE

Roadtrip Nation (Documentary 30 minutes)

In Santa Fe, the team interviews Celine Cousteau, filmmaker and granddaughter of famed explorer Jacques Cousteau. They then drive into West Texas and visit with Doug Baum, owner of Texas Camel Corps. Driving east to Austin, they interview Terry Lickona, producer of the television program Austin City Limits and finish up their tour of Texas in Houston where they talk with blogger and author Gwendolyn Zepeda.

Airdate: 1/23/2010 @ 12:30 am on KCTS 9 & KYVE

Roadtrip Nation (Documentary 30 minutes)

The team heads north to Chicago and interview chef Homaru Cantu and go to a White Sox baseball game - a first for this team of Australians. They then drive to Cleveland and interview Terry Stewart, President of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. The team then drives east to New York City to visit with tattoo artist Eli Quinters and pianist and tae kwon do champion Elaine Kwon.

Airdate: 1/30/2010 @ 12:30 am on KCTS 9 & KYVE

Roadtrip Nation (Documentary 30 minutes)

Still in New York City, the team interviews Roger Thomas, a capella musical director and musician. Arriving in Boston, the team visits inventor and futurist Ray Kurzweil before driving on to Portland, Maine, their last stop. In Maine, they interview sailor Bruce Schwab, who is the first American to complete the round-the-world Vendee Globe Race. Wrapping up their roadtrip, the team reflects on six weeks of eye-opening and life-changing experiences and prepare to head back to Australia to define their own roads in life.

Scarred Justice: The Orangeburg Massacre 1968 (Documentary 60 minutes)

On February 8, 1968, eight seconds of police gunfire left three African-American students dying and 27 wounded on the campus of South Carolina State College at Orangeburg. The shooting capped off four days of student protests over the desegregation of the city's only bowling alley. Often termed "the Kent State of the South," and pre-dating it by two years, the shooting marked the first time in U.S. history that police opened fire on students. Through interviews and archival material, SCARRED JUSTICE examines the tumultuous events of that day from a variety of perspectives and follows the ongoing efforts to seek justice for the victims.

Frontline Digital Nation (Documentary 60 minutes)

Over a single generation, the Web and digital media have remade nearly every aspect of modern culture, transforming the way we work, learn and connect in ways that we're only beginning to understand. FRONTLINE producer Rachel Dretzin ("Growing up Online") teams up with one of the leading thinkers of the digital age, Douglas Rushkoff ("The Persuaders," "Merchants of Cool"), to continue to explore life on the virtual frontier. The film is the product of a unique collaboration with visitors to the Digital Nation Web site, who for the past year have been able to react to the work in progress and post their own stories online. Dretzin and her team report from the front lines of digital culture -- from love affairs blossoming in virtual worlds, to the thoroughly wired classrooms of the future, to military bases where the Air Force is fighting a new form of digital warfare. Along the way, they begin to map the critical ways that technology is transforming us, and what we may be learning about ourselves in the process.

When Learning Comes Naturally (Documentary 30 minutes)

WHEN LEARNING COMES NATURALLY documents innovative outdoor-education programs around the country created to help children understand and experience the wonders and joys of nature. The film explores the immediate and lasting benefits of introducing young children to "green" experiences. Natural spaces - in the form of gardens, small trails and outdoor "green adventure" areas - allow for the discoveries and choices vital to child development and learning. In addition, outdoor education can cultivate in children a permanent connection with the natural world - a crucial ethic of environmental responsibility.

4. Minorities/Civil Rights

Ripple of Hope (Documentary 60 minutes)

On the night of Dr. Martin Luther King's murder in 1968, Robert F. Kennedy was scheduled to make an appearance in an African-American neighborhood as part of his run for the Democratic presidential nomination. Upon hearing the tragic news, Kennedy was forced to make a crucial decision: Should he venture into the heart of the Indianapolis inner city and talk to the potentially volatile crowd gathered in a park? What could he say that would assuage their grief? Should he defy the city officials who ordered him to stay away? Would his life be in danger? A RIPPLE OF HOPE tells the dramatic story of that night, and how by keeping his promise to speak in Indianapolis, Robert F. Kennedy was able to help that city avert the violence that swept the rest of the country and make a profound statement about American race relations.

Face to Face with Roberta (Documentary 30 minutes)

In the early '60's, Face to Face with Roberta Byrd as moderator was the first local television series in the nation to regularly cover minorities. KCTS 9 originated the program, it moved to KING TV and soon became a popular "must see" program for those in the know. As an educator, TV personality and civil rights leader, Roberta helped keep the lid on the city in those tumultuous days. Yet history has all but forgotten her. Here, then is an opportunity for you to revisit the issues of those years through the powerful presence of this refreshingly out-spoken, honest and delightful individual, Roberta Byrd.

AfroPop: The Ultimate Cultural Exchange Hip Hop Revolution (Documentary 60 minutes)

Using an experimental narrative style, South African filmmaker Weaam Williams explores a generation inspired to question, survive and conquer an unjust political system by the hip-hop genre and its culture. Through the struggles of DJs, B-Boys, MCs and creative graffiti artists, "Hip Hop Revolution" depicts an element of hip-hop often overlooked - its power to provoke and catalyze change. Director: Weaam Williams.

"Hip Hop Revolution": "Close Strangers": Shot on location in the communities surrounding the former slave post and prison, Ussher Fort, "Close Strangers" examines the blurry lines between history and reality. Student filmmaker Benjamin Kent walks among vendors, school children and local residents, asking questions about the history of the Ussher Fort, a main tourist attraction in Ghana. Their intriguing answers raise even more questions of personal responsibility, the cultural effects of tourism and the interpretation of history for future generations. "Close Strangers" was filmed and edited as part of a week-long new media workshop organized by the National Black Programming Consortium in collaboration with the Real Life Documentary Festival in Accra, Ghana. Director: Benjamin Kent.

Independent Lens Hip-Hop: Beyond Beats and Rhymes (Documentary 60 minutes)

This film takes an in-depth look at machismo in rap music and hip-hop culture -- where creative genius, poetic beauty and mad beats collide with misogyny, violence and homophobia.

Airdate: 1/26 @ 10:00 pm on KCTS 9 & KYVE.

AfroPop: The Ultimate Cultural Exchange Moving to the Beat (Documentary 60 minutes)

"Moving to the Beat" explores how youth in Africa and the United States use hip hop music to communicate with one another and as a language for social change. The documentary follows Rebel Soulz, a hip hop group from Portland, Oregon, as they journey to Freetown, Sierra Leone to bring the radical roots of American hip hop to the motherland of Africa. In the process of collaborating and interacting with the local artists, the visitors confront their own stereotypes and fantasies of Africa while shattering the Sierra Leoneans' perception of America as a "second heaven." Their deeply forged connection overcomes centuries of misunderstanding and separation and serves as an inspiring call for people worldwide to transcend boundaries. Directors: Caleb Heymann/Abdul Fofanah.

Egalite for All: Toussaint Louverture and the Haitian Revolution (Documentary 60 minutes)

It was the only successful slave insurrection in history. It grasped the full meaning of French revolutionary ideas and used them to create the world's first Black republic. It elevated a Black general, Toussaint Louverture, to such international fame that admirers ranked him on par with George Washington. It was the Haitian Revolution, a movement that's been called the true birth moment of universal human rights. Vaguely remembered today, the Haitian Revolution was a hurricane at the turn of the 19th century -- traumatizing Southern planters and inspiring U.S. slaves. This program explores this history through music, voodoo ritual, re-creations and insightful writers and historians.

Faces of America Our American Stories (Documentary 60 minutes)

Episode one will explore the dynamic and shifting relationship America had with her new immigrants in the 20th century. World war tore apart families; and sundered the fabric of many lives; but America beckoned and millions came. Yet, America was an ambivalent host. At its best, a place of refuge and salvation, as for film director Mike Nichols whose entire family escaped Nazi Germany. At its worst, a country that would imprison two generations of Japanese Americans, like the ancestors of Olympic gold medalist Kristi Yamaguchi. Along the way, we'll discover the buoyant American optimism that shaped chance - as in a single encounter that changed cellist Yo-Yo Ma's life forever - to pave the road to success.

Tootie Pie (Drama 15 minutes)

Tootie Pie is a short film directed by Virginia Bogert and adapted by C. Rosalind Bell from Bell's short story, First Friend; and produced by Susan LaSalle. It tells the story of a pivotal day in the life of two young girls in the American segregated South of the 1960s. Tootie Pie and Claressa are best friends. Tootie longs for Claressa's perfect family and perfect world; Claressa looks up to the brave and feisty Tootie Pie. At a tender age they must face life's hard realities and Tootie Pie must face her own disreputable mother. Tootie Pie is a story of the mysterious bonds of friendship and kinship.

Faces of America Becoming American (Documentary 60 minutes)

Episode Two explores the many journeys to becoming American that defined the "Century of Immigration" (1820s - 1924) and transformed the United States from a sleepy agrarian country into a booming industrial power. Stephen Colbert's Irish great-great-grandfather escaped poverty and religious oppression in Limerick and never looked back, whereas Mario Batali's great-grandfather, who left the place where his family had lived for centuries, struggled to survive in the quartz mines of Montana. Her Majesty Queen Noor's Syrian great-grandfather quickly found his footing in New York's first Arab American community, while Kristi Yamaguchi's grandfather faced exclusionary laws and racially-defined barriers to citizenship for decades. The obstacles, short-cuts, tragedies and successes encountered or created by the guests' ancestors from around the world reveal the complexity of our shared history and identity as Americans.

Blacking Up: Hip-Hop's Remix of Race and Identity (Documentary 60 minutes)

BLACKING UP explores racial identity through the lens of hip-hop music and culture. The film focuses in particular on the tensions that surround white identification with hip-hop. Popularly referred to by derogatory terms such as "wannabe" or "wigger," the white person who identifies with hip-hop often invokes heated responses. For some, it is an example of cultural progress - a movement toward a color-blind America. For others, it is just another case of cultural theft and mockery - a repetition of a racist past.

BLACKING UP probes these different responses, constructing a dialogue on race that draws parallels from American history and incorporates the well-known rappers, and assortment of young fans and hip-hop hopefuls, among others.

People V. Leo Frank (Documentary 90 minutes)

In 1913 Atlanta, 13-year old Mary Phagan, is found dead in the basement of the National Pencil Company. The police soon focus on Mary Phagan's boss, Leo Frank, a Jewish engineer recently arrived from New York. Frank's murder trial becomes a free-for-all of racial stereotypes and contradictions. He is found guilty largely on the say of the state's star witness, Jim Conley, a black factory sweeper. Leo Frank is sentenced to death, but his story is far from over. Frank's lawyers appeal the conviction 13 times, all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. Meanwhile, The New York Times leads a crusade to exonerate Frank. At the 11th hour, Georgia Governor John Slaton concludes that Frank had not received a fair trial and commutes his sentence from death to life in prison. But Slaton's decision ignites a backlash. On a hot August afternoon, 25 men drive to the state penitentiary, walk in and -- without any resistance -- abduct Frank. They drive him to an oak grove near Mary Phagan's childhood home. A noose is put around his neck and the small table on which he has been hoisted is kicked out from under him. THE PEOPLE v. LEO FRANK weaves drama with recollections, commentary and archival images. Will Janowitz (The Sopranos) is Leo Frank and Seth Gilliam (The Wire) plays Jim Conley with a script drawn directly from the historical record.

Faces of America Making America (Documentary 60 minutes)

Episode Three tells the story of the peopling of the New World, of how land came to define the settling and identity of America, and of how the guests' ancestors were part of this history. We discover descriptions of Meryl Streep's eighth great-grandfather who fought in Metacom's War; records of a land dispute in Spain that pushed Eva Longoria's ancestors to leave for the New World; a treaty that Louise Erdrich's Native American ancestor was forced to sign; and Yo-Yo Ma's family genealogy in China, which gives insights into his identity he has longed for his whole life.

Before There Were Parks: Yellowstone and Glacier Through Native Eyes (Documentary 30 minutes)

From time immemorial, Native Americans have regarded the lands now called Yellowstone and Glacier as significant and sacred. Today, nearly 30 tribal nations maintain official ties to these national parks, and many tribal leaders consider ongoing Native involvement in these areas necessary to the long-term health of America's endangered indigenous cultures. In BEFORE THERE WERE PARKS: YELLOWSTONE AND GLACIER THROUGH NATIVE EYES, narrated by N. Scott Momaday, more than a dozen of these leaders and experts from across the region offer a respectful introduction to the knowledge that tribal people here have passed down for at least the past 12,000 years. Viewers discover why Glacier and Yellowstone are so important to American Indians -- for reasons far beyond their recent status as National Parks.

Great Performances Harlem In Montmartre (Documentary 90 minutes)

"Harlem in Montmartre" tells the story of the jazz age in Paris between the first and second World Wars, exploring an often neglected era in African-American cultural history. After peace was signed at Versailles, many black Americans remained in Europe rather than return to the brutal segregation and racism of America. Over the next two decades, they created an expatriate community of musicians, entertainers and entrepreneurs, primarily congregating in Paris's hilly Montmartre neighborhood. Some achieved enduring fame, while others have faded into history. Inspired by the book by William A. Shack and utilizing rare archival material from both France and America, this documentary features footage of such key figures as James Reese Europe, Josephine Baker, Sidney Bechet, Bricktop, Eugene Bullard, Django Reinhardt, and many more.

Simon Schama's Rough Crossings (Documentary 90 minutes)

At the end of the American Revolution, thousands of African-American slaves risked everything to fight for the British in exchange for a promise of freedom. John Clarkson, a young Royal Navy lieutenant, was sent to North America by British abolitionists to fulfill that promise. According to plan, each slave would be resettled in Nova Scotia. However, when that frigid, rocky terrain proved inhospitable to those who had worked the cotton fields of the Deep South, Clarkson arranged for them to be transported across the Atlantic to Sierra Leone. Using journals, diaries and autobiographical accounts, writer-narrator Simon Schama (SIMON SCHAMA'S POWER OF ART) reconstructs this epic journey. Gripping dramatizations transport viewers from the slave plantations of Georgia to the bone-chilling cold of Nova Scotia to the trim parlors of Georgian England and finally to sweltering Sierra Leone, where Clarkson's dreams of a haven for former slaves would come to a tragic end.

View from a Grain of Sand (Documentary 60 minutes)

Thirty years ago, urban Afghan women were making unprecedented strides socially and professionally. Now, they are virtually erased from the public face of their nation. Combining verite footage, interviews and archival material, VIEW FROM A GRAIN OF SAND is a harrowing, thought-provoking, yet intimated portrait of Afghan women's history over the last 30 years - from the rule of King Zahir Shah in the 1960's to the current Hamid Karzai government. Told through the eyes of three Afghan women - a doctor, teacher, and women's rights activist - this documentary tells the story of how war, international interference and the rise of religious fundamentalism has stripped Afghan women of rights and freedom. Together with rarely seen archival footage, their powerful stories provide illuminating context for Afghanistan's current situation and the ongoing battle women face to gain even basic human rights.

Faces of America Making America (Documentary 60 minutes)

Episode Four takes up the search for the guests' ancestries where the historical record leaves off and links their distinctive family histories to the broader history of "the family of man." Combining the documented stories of some of the guests' last known ancestors with DNA evidence, the series travel backward through time to reveal both distant relatives and surprising shared ancestral connections. Elizabeth Alexander learns that she is a direct descendent of Charlemagne, and that her paternal roots are not only European, but Jewish. Meryl Streep and Mike Nichols discover that they are distant cousins, as do Yo-Yo Ma and Eva Longoria. Interwoven with these stories and others is the journey of the host, Henry Louis Gates, Jr. as he and his father and brother undertake an historic project to have their entire genomes mapped, and thereby to learn everything they possibly can about their own family. This episode offers a compelling and thought-provoking meditation on the importance of ancestry, the meaning of family and the role of both in creating identity.

Veiled Voices (Documentary 60 minutes)

Women across the Arab world are redefining their role as leaders in Islam. VEILED VOICES investigates the world of Muslim women religious leaders through the eyes of these three women in Lebanon, Syria, and Egypt. Shot over the course of two years, VEILED VOICES reveals a world rarely documented, exploring both the public and private lives of these women. The stories featured in the film give insight into how Muslim women are now increasingly willing to challenge the status quo from within their religion, promoting Islam as a powerful force for positive transformation in the world. Each triumphs over difficult challenges as they carve out a space to lead - both in Islam and in their communities. VEILED VOICES profiles three influential women - along with their families and the communities they serve: Ghina Hammoud in Lebanon; Dr. Su'ad Saleh in Egypt; and Huda al-Habash in Syria.

Sisters of Selma: Bearing Witness for Change (Documentary 60 minutes)

This program focuses on some of the unsung foot soldiers of the Selma, Alabama, voting rights marches of 1965 - the Catholic nuns who came from around the country to answer Dr. King's call to join the protests. Risking personal safety to bring change, the sisters found themselves being changed in turn. The nuns were reunited to view themselves on newfound archival footage of the protests; their recorded reactions help narrate the film.

Frederick Douglass: Pathway from Slavery to Freedom (Documentary 30 minutes)

Starring Jamie Hector, best known for playing Marlo Stanfield on the HBO series The Wire, in the lead role, FREDERICK DOUGLASS: PATHWAY FROM SLAVERY TO FREEDOM tells the traumatic and compelling story of Douglass' early life. Born in Maryland, his mother was a slave and his father was a white man, most likely his mother's owner. Separated from his mother as an infant and later his maternal grandmother, Douglass was sent to live with the Auld family in Baltimore. The television special reveals his life-changing experience in Baltimore when he learned to read, first from Hugh Auld's wife, Sophia, and then from white children in his neighborhood. Douglass' thirst for knowledge and freedom eventually led him to escape to the North at age twenty and set off on a life that changed American history.

Tavis Smiley Reports MLK: A Call to Conscience (Interview/Discussion/Review, 60 minutes)

The speech, delivered exactly one-year prior to the date of his assassination, is considered pivotal but often under-appreciated. Dr. King challenged the morality of the Vietnam conflict and urged a national discussion about the role of America in the world. Smiley will examine the context of Dr. King's words on liberty, responsibility and freedom against the backdrop of the fight for civil rights and an increasingly unpopular war, and examine the implications of his words today, particularly in light of President Obama's decision to increase U.S. troops in Afghanistan.

Visiting Riverside Church & the National Cathedral and drawing on the expertise of leading academics, historians, and high profile personalities, Tavis conducts a 360 - examining not only the meaning of Dr. King's words, but their legacy as well.

Among those interviewed will be: Clarence Jones - King's legal advisor & co-credited with writing the "Beyond Vietnam" speech, Harry Belafonte, Tony Bennett, Dr. Cornel West - Princeton professor, and Dr. Marian Wright Edelman - Civil Rights Activist & Head of Children's Defense Fund.
